

Early raising experiments: Copper and silver

The Dutch Connection: Salt & Pepper set based on the water collection drains at the top of the houses. These are part of a range of useable pieces that I hope to develop further. These pieces were in the Goldsmith's Company 'Silver with a pinch of salt' exhibition 2009.

The JAMES Exchange, Schmuck, Munich 2009. These pieces were developed as part of a collective called JAMES (Jewellery and Metalwork Enquiry Show). We work towards a joint exhibition annually. This year we sent each other packages from where we lived. Mine was sent to me by Patrick who lived in London at the time. The map formed part of the basis for the pieces and photographs from where he lived provided information re: structures. I have continued with my interest in containers but removed their functionality.
